SPEAKER BIO

Bill Silverman is the owner of Springboard Business Coaching. He specializes in coaching the owners of 7-figure contracting businesses who are tired of running a business where they have to do everything, make every decision, and solve every problem.

Before Bill started Springboard, he spent 25-years in a variety of senior management positions at Marriott, CIGNA, and other corporations.

Bill's taken what he's learned about running large companies and uses it to help his clients let go of doing everything and run their businesses through their managers like the CEO of a major corporation.

The result is a growing, profitable business that can thrive without their constant attention and a happier, more balanced life.
